

AE Performance Solutions Inc. is a woman-owned full service training consulting company. We work closely with our clients to analyze their training and performance needs to determine the most appropriate and effective solutions. We use proven Instructional Design methodologies to create customized training for our clients. At any given time, we are developing sales training, systems training and product training for Fortune 500 companies.

Using the ADDIE approach (Analysis, Design, Development, Implementation and Evaluation), we develop engaging training courses conducted by a trainer, online or a hybrid. We incorporate adult learning theory and accelerated learning techniques to grab the participant's attention and reinforce learning.

We have experience developing:

- Facilitator and participant guides for leader-led training
- User manuals
- Tutorials and quick reference guides
- Online training and documentation
- Train-the-trainer programs

AE Performance Solutions can also facilitate our custom-developed courses and other internally developed proprietary training courses.
